GYMNASIUM NEARLY READY.

Opens Next Wednesday. Apparatus Partly In. Shower Bath Equipment An Improvement.

Work on the new gymnasium has progressed rapidly during the past few weeks. There still remains the completion of the slate-roofing and of the flooring, but as both are already far advanced, this will require but little time.

The hot and cold shower baths, as well as the heating and lighting arrangements, are all completed.

It is expected that the gymnasium will be ready for occupancy by the Basket Ball Team next Wednesday afternoon.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

The regular weekly meeting of the Y. M. C. A., held yesterday at 1.30 in 11 Pierce, was addressed by Professor Porter of the Civil Engineering Department.

Professor Porter's talk was partly reminiscent of his own student days. He considered himself to have derived great assistance from the strengthening and steady power of his religious convictions. He urged upon his hearers the value of such convictions to one placed as they were liable to be. Temptation comes strong to men of responsibility, but advancement secured at cost of principle is a loss. Dr. Porter also gave concrete practical advice, laying stress on the avoidance of jealousies, and the danger of giving free rein to the natural tendency to relax one's principles when among strangers.

The music was better than usual; a solo was sung by Patch, '06.

FENCING.

It will be good news to all the undergraduates and particularly to those interested in fencing, to know that Mr. Jorge Lage is again to represent the Institute as a member of the Fencing Team during the coming year.

There have been rumors that Lage was to join the B. A. A. team, but although he joined the Club, yet he has announced his purpose to stick by the Tech Team and not fence regularly for the B. A. A.

LOWELL INSTITUTE.

St. Clair Baddeley, Esq., gave the fourth paper of his series of eight lectures on "Ancient Rome in the Light of Recent Discoveries" last evening in Huntington Hall.

His subject was "The Regia," the temple in which the early kings of Rome performed their religious offices, and which was used for a similar purpose by the Pontifex Maximus after the overthrow of the kings.

The next lecture of the series will be Monday evening on "The Rostra."

FIRST AID TO INJURED.

Dr. White's Second Talk Devoted to This Subject. Practical Illustration Given.

Dr. White, the medical adviser of the Institute, gave his second lecture on "Personal Hygiene" Wednesday afternoon at 3.30 in Huntington Hall. The subjects assigned for this talk were: Minor Ailments and First Aid, or What to Do in Emergencies.

Minor ailments, said Dr. White, are mainly due to imprudence in eating. As to the kind of eating, Dr. White himself favors a mixed diet of meat and cereals rather than the strictly vegetarian diet. Another cause of minor ailments is imprudence in exercise shortly after eating. But properly regulated exercise is directly a preventive of many of those minor ailments which arise from the stomach.

Under Emergencies and First Aid, Dr. White first discussed treatment of frost-bites, burns, cuts, bruises and sprains. He urged that some little ready information should be possessed by all on these subjects. For often it is the first aid which counts most, when no doctor can be quickly reached. If a man knows just what to do, he may often bring great relief to a companion in the accidents common to hunting, camping or athletics. The recommendations which the lecturer made had the great merit of being all practical. The materials which he advocated using as splints, bandages, etc., were such as could be obtained on the spot.

The most interesting part of Dr. White's lecture came last when he gave an illustrated exposition of the way to resuscitate a partly-drowned person. For the purpose he requested a volunteer to come up from his audience, and went through all the arm-movements and chest-compressions which tend to restore breath to the partly filled lungs. Everything except the reclining position was shown exactly.

Dr. White described the position the half-drowned unconscious man should be placed in to allow the water to drain out from his lungs; this is face downward with the middle of the body higher than the throat and mouth.

The movement which brings about artificial respiration should be done with the patient on his back (head again low), and consists in expanding the chest by means of bringing the patient's arms together above his head, then of compressing it by lowering the arms and pressing strongly on the lower ribs. In doing this, care must be taken that the tongue does not stop the respiratory passage; it may, if one person is working alone, be tied down to the lower jaw with a handkerchief.

Dr. White said that the great requisite was perseverance. A man is far more tenacious of life than

FIRST GLEE CLUB CONCERT.

Musical Clubs' Appear to Good Advantage. Make-Up of Clubs Now Permanent. Winter Program.

The Glee, Mandolin and Banjo clubs gave their first concert of the season yesterday evening at the Boston Harbor Club, 287 Hanover St., before an apparently appreciative audience. The clubs alternated in the program, three selections each being given by the Mandolin and Glee Clubs, and two being given by the Banjo Club. The admission to the concert was free, it being intended principally as a dress rehearsal for the clubs, preliminary to the season's schedule.

The itinerary of the musical clubs up to Christmas will be as follows: Nov. 24, North Attleboro; Nov. 28, Boston Young Men's Catholic Association, 41 East Newton Street; Dec. 14, Lynn Y. M. C. A.; Dec. 20, Winter Concert and Dance, New Century Building, 177 Huntington Avenue.

B. E. A. DINNER.

The British Empire Association held its first regular dinner at the Union last Wednesday evening at half past six. Twenty-eight of the active members were present besides the guests of the evening, who were the three honorary members, Recorder Wells, S. Gunn, M. I. T. '05, and T. Hasejawa '09.

C. A. Bettington, chairman of the association, acted as toastmaster and called on every man present for a short sketch of his own life as well as a short description of the country from which he came. In this way the members heard of the manners and customs of England, Ireland, Scotland, Canada, South Africa, Australia, Japan, India, Peru, and Tasmania. It was proposed that the association should hold a dinner regularly every two months, but a decision on the point was postponed until the next business meeting. After singing a few Tech songs and some national airs the men went home.

All members of the News Staff of The Tech are requested to meet in 30 Rogers at 1.10 P.M. today, Friday, Nov. 17.

All men trying for the News Staff of The Tech will meet the Managing Editor in 30 Rogers at 4.15 P.M. today, Friday, Nov. 17.

The Tech published in its last issue a suggestion from a student that there should be at the Institute a chapter of some one of

An Honorary letter societies. Why not?

Society? As men who must in the future associate with the graduates of other colleges and scientific institutions, we should have the opportunity of attaining the social and intellectual advantages of membership in some such society of national influence.

Phi Beta Kappa and Tau Beta Pi were mentioned by our correspondent, but the former is associated rather with academic institutions, and the influence of the latter is not widespread. A third society, Sigma Xi, is distinctly scientific, and has important chapters at the Sheffield Scientific, at Cornell, and practically all of the large western universities, as well as in connection with the scientific departments of several eastern colleges. This society, which occupies the same relation to scientific work that Phi Beta Kappa does to classical study in America, has several representatives among our instructing staff, and would undoubtedly be better suited to our needs at Tech than any other honorary society. An additional advantage, which becomes apparent from an article published some months ago in the Yale Scientific Monthly, is that the choice of Sigma Xi members from each senior class is by the active chapter in existence at the institution, and not by official faculty action. This would avoid any conflict with the established policy of our faculty not to recognize differences of merit in scholarship.

It is suggested that the Institute Committee, as the official representative of the student body, investigate the advisability of inaugurating a movement for the establishment of a chapter of some honorary society at the Institute.

The following communication has been received by Secretary H. W. Tyler from the Museum of Fine Arts: "Free admission to the Museum of Fine Arts is granted to instructors and students in Universities, Colleges, Normal Schools and similar institutions who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity. Application forms for instructors' tickets and students' tickets will be sent on learning the number required.

"The Bulletin of the Museum, issued bi-monthly and containing announcements of objects newly installed, official notices, etc., is sent free to any place of education or to any instructor on application."

Application blanks may be obtained at the Registrar's office.

(Continued from page 1.) would be believed; many cases of rescue after a full half hour's seemingly unavailing work have been known.

A GREAT TRADE SCHOOL

Perhaps the foremost trade school in the country, if not in the world, is the Lowell Textile School, at Lowell, Mass.

This school, located on a good factory site, combines in its large buildings complete cotton, wool and silk manufactories and sufficient museum and recitation rooms. During the three or four years' course, the students are put through a thorough training, both in the practical and theoretical sides of their trades. Night classes are held for working men.

The theoretical courses are patterned very closely after those given here at the Institute. The Principal and two of the instructors are graduates of Tech, and it is avowedly to Tech that the Lowell school looks for its ideals.

President Pritchett is a member of the board of directors.
